1. Ahmed Balafrej, Mohamed Lyazidi, and Mehdi Bennouna do not wish the Moroccan question to be brought before the General Assembly this year as they consider their case to be insufficiently and improperly documented at present. They fear that Allal el Fassi and Mohamed Ouazzani have overplayed their hand in Cairo and have placed the French in an excellent position to refute Nationalist allegations and to present a strong case in behalf of France.
2. Balafrej and Lyazidi are particularly anxious if possible to send Bennouna to the United States, as they feel that he is more capable and better equipped to present the Nationalist viewpoint than is el Fassi.
